

plan [plæn]
make plans
guess [ges]

Does it appear to you that it's important to make plans for the future?

Yes, it appears to me that it's important to make plans for the future.

Why?

Because a good plan will help us be successful.

What have you planned for the weekend?

I have planned a trip to Cracow for the weekend.

Can you guess what I plan to do in the evening?

No, I can't guess what you plan to do in the evening.

Do you try to guess answers in a test if you don't know them?

Yes, I usually try to guess answers in a test if I don't know them.

Are you ever right?

Yes, I'm sometimes right.

Why is a street plan useful when you are in a city that you don't know?

A street plan is useful when I'm in a city that I don't know because I can find my way.

practise ['præktɪs]
type [taɪp]
spelling ['spɛlɪŋ]
various ['vɛəriəs]

How many words can you type a minute?

I think I can type 60 words a minute.

What should you do if you want to be able to type more words a minute?

I should practise a lot if I want to be able to type more words a minute.

Does English spelling seem difficult to you?

No, English spelling doesn't seem difficult to me.

Do you make a lot of spelling mistakes when you type?

No, I don't make a lot of spelling mistakes when I type.

Are there various ways to practise spelling?

Yes, there are various ways to practise spelling.

For example?

For example, reading or writing carefully.

paste [peɪst]

Do you ever use the paste function on your computer?

Yes, I sometimes use the paste function on my computer.

Is it faster to cut and paste text or to type it?

It's faster to cut and paste text than to type it.